On Typographical Errors in a Computer Age

A subscriber takes me to task for a factual error in this column of Dec. 1, saying:

"This is the first time I have heard that Juan Peron was dictator of Brazil—I thought he was dictator of Argentina. Am I wrong?"

I was writing on the various ways that governments attempt to exercise censorship of newspapers—not by direct orders to the editorial department but economic pressures against the business office. As an example I cited Juan Peron. Argentina produces no newsprint of its own, so all newsprint is imported. The government took control of newsprint imports and simply refused to sell paper to newspapers whose editorials were offensive.

The subject is something I went into thoroughly back in the 1960s when I was making speeches as co-chairman of the National Committee Against Censorship by Taxation. American newspapermen were particularly angry at Peron because he forced the suspension of La Prensa of Buenos Aires, the largest Spanish language newspaper in the world. And La Prensa was restored only after Peron was overthrown.

Therefore it is to be presumed I know what country Peron was dictator of. But I did write "Brazil" instead of Argentina; also, I missed the error when correcting proof. But I have no secretary, and do all my editorial research alone. On a metropolitan newspaper the error would have been caught because many people examine copy before publication, while most small-town editors operate alone.

A slip of the typewriter is worse than a slip of the tongue because the printed page is there forever—while the slips made by broadcast and television reporters are quickly forgotten. Many times you have heard a football telecaster give the ball to the wrong team, or quote the score erroneously. You excuse it as a casualty of speed in today's communication.

Newspapers today operate many times faster than in the days of Linotypes and letterpress. In those days a veteran Linotype operator would set the editorial, and, being just as literate and knowledgeable as the editor, he would bring an offending editorial up to the editor for a conference. I had no secretary, but I did have a good critic in the shop.

Today newspaper copy is pounded out by fast typists into perforated tape which is fed into computerized phototypesetters. Proof is read and corrected in the shop—but the final revised proof is turned over to me, and "Brazil" is one I missed.

It's as bad as the error a former partner of mine at El Dorado, Stanley Andrews, once made in an editorial on Columbus Day. He was editor of the News, and I was associate editor. One of my duties was to check Andy's facts and grammar.

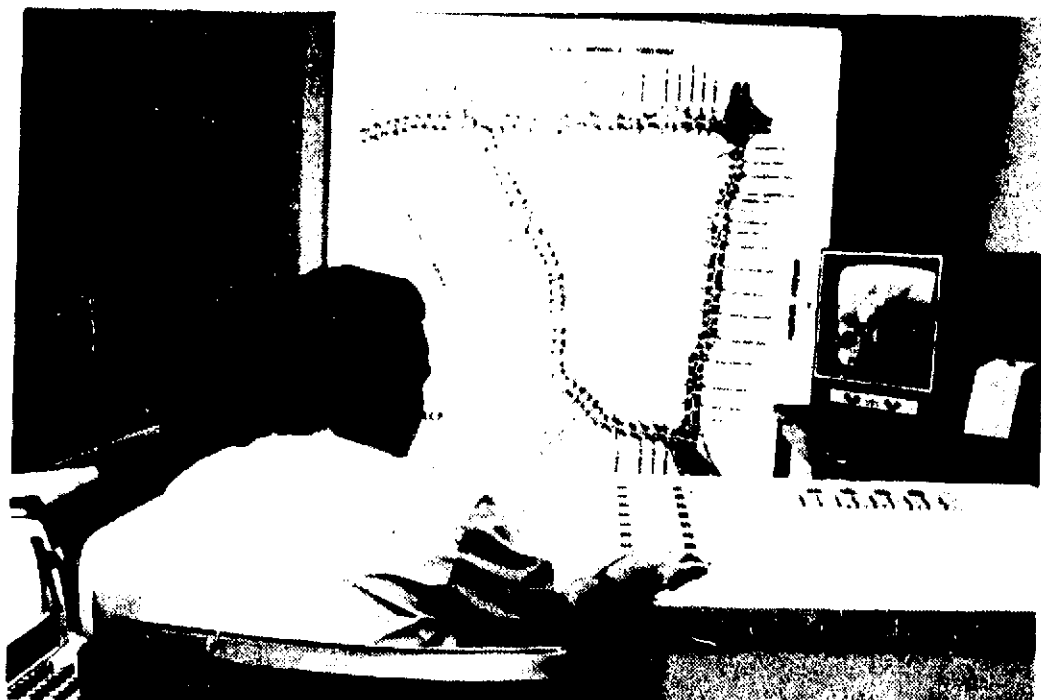

Andy wrote that Queen Elizabeth pawned the crown jewels to finance Columbus' discovery voyage to America. He repeated "Elizabeth" several times, and each time I made the correction "Isabella." But one I did miss—and that one "bust" brought letters to the El Dorado Daily News for a month afterward.

I appreciate having at least one sharp-eyed subscriber. The surprising thing is that I got only this one letter.

Youth Killed in Fall from Truck

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Authorities say Wesley W. Coates, 19, of Pinellas Park, Fla., died Saturday when he fell from a pickup truck on a county road north of Siloam Springs, Ark.

State Police said Coates apparently was knocked off balance by a gust of wind while he was sitting on top of a load of plywood.

1971 Construction Hits Peak, More Projected

By LEONARD ELLIS

Residential and commercial construction reached an all-time high in Hope and Hempstead County during the year 1971...and the projection for 1972 may be even greater.

Building permits for residential construction inside the city limits of Hope topped a million dollars, and this includes 75 new homes which have been completed to date.

The most prolific builder has been the Zeco Construction firm of Hope with 33 new homes completed at a cost of $455,000. Other residential builders have been Roland Ballard, Jimmy Easterling, Coy Breeding, Eugene Ferguson, Robert Arnold, U.G. Garrett, Kenzie Atkins, Jr., Leland Lavender, Joe Porterfield, Bearden Construction Company, and Security Properties, Inc.

In rural Hempstead County and in the Millwood Lake area, some of the busiest residential contractors have been Eugene Ferguson, Clold Bittick, and U.G. Garrett. New brick veneer homes have been completed near paved highways leading north, south, east, and west, replacing once old and drab surroundings.

The rural economy seems to be at a new all-time peak brought about by increased expansion of the egg, poultry and livestock industries. This better way of life is also reflected in increased assets of the financial institutions of the county, including published statements by the two Hope banks, Hope Federal and the Bank of Blevins.

Commercial construction in Hope and Hempstead County in the year 1971 runs into millions of dollars. There is no parallel, no comparison, to the many projects now under way, completed or nearing completion.

This year saw the completion and dedication by Gov. Dale Bumpers on October 28, of the huge Cornbelt Feed Mill and Grain Storage complex on Highway 4 north, one of largest if not the largest facility of its kind in the United States.

Also on October 28, Gov. Bumpers dedicated the new Hope Feed Corporation industry headed by Hillman Koen and Tom Duncan. This facility is located in the Proving Ground area.

Earlier in the year, Cornbelt erected a new and expensive hatchery on the Rocky Mound Road, just east of Hope.

On North Hervey Street leading to Inter-State 30, four new commercial projects got underway, three of them now complete and occupied, and the fourth to be finished in early 1972. Land acquisition and construction cost of these four facilities will exceed the million-dollar mark.

These projects include a new shopping center owned by Doyle See 1971 CONSTRUCTION (on Page two)

Officials Want to See End to Freeze in 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — The machinery to enforce Phase 2 wage, price and rent controls is in place as 1971 nears its end, and administration officials are expressing hope—but not making predictions—that the restraints can be removed before 1972 ends.

President Nixon signed the bill extending his control authority for the full period he asked, through April 30, 1973. The legislation gives him essentially what he requested from Congress and one or two things he did not seek.

One is a pay raise for federal civilian employees and the military Jan. 1 instead of July 1, at an estimated cost of more than $1 billion.

The act also specifies that pay raises caught in the freeze are to be paid under certain conditions. AFL-CIO President George Meany hailed this provision as a victory for labor. Among the beneficiaries are an estimated 1.7 million teachers.

Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans, meeting with newsmen, predicted a strong upsurge in the economy in 1972, perhaps reaching 6½ per cent, which would be the biggest annual gain since 1955.

Asked about the duration of the controls, he said "the de-control process already is being studied," but that no one now can be sure when Phase 2 will end.

The cost-of-living index moved up two-tenths of 1 per cent for November, the same rate as for October. It reflected the continued effect of the freeze that ended in mid-month and administration officials expressed satisfaction.

Christmas shoppers apparently were not deterred. The Commerce Department, after a telephone check, said it appears seasonal buying was up 11 to 12 per cent in dollars over last year, 8 to 9 per cent in volume, which would be the biggest annual gain in five years. The Pay Board and Price Commission continued to make decisions—and to run into controversy.

The commission issued complicated new guidelines on rents that Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said would hold average increases to 3 or 3½ per cent. But Mrs. Rosetta Wylie, tenant member of the Rent Advisory Board, said the regulations would be inflationary, enabling landlords to hike rents as much as 30 per cent in rare cases.

Business members of the Pay Board issued a blanket challenge of all scheduled pay raises exceeding 7 per cent, throwing doubt on such future raises. Some other members questioned whether a blanket challenge was legal or practical, but the business members said they would challenge individually each raise over 7 per cent in any case.

Internationally, the newly devalued dollar surprised its guardians by riding high on foreign exchanges

Sit-in Starts at Statue of Liberty

By SAM MAULL

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen young antiwar veterans were barricaded inside the Statue of Liberty today, vowing to remain until New Year's Eve in a protest against the continuation of the Vietnam war.

"We, as the new generation of men who have survived Vietnam, are taking this symbolic action at the Statue of Liberty in an effort to show support for any person who refuses to kill," the demonstrators said in a statement issued by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW).

Administrators for the National Park Service, which has jurisdiction over Liberty Island, talked with the group during the night but there was no indication what action officials would take if the men did not leave.

Some of the protesters wore military fatigues and medals, others were in civilian clothes. They mingled with the tourists who took ferryboats to the national landmark Sunday, then hid at closing time.

A night watchman discovered the group about 7 p.m. The group evicted the watchman and used lumber taken from a renovation project inside the statue to barricade the doors.

In a statement issued from the VVAW office in Manhattan shortly before midnight, the group said: "We support any action taken by our brothers in Southeast Asia to end the war and we demand that this message be transferred to our brothers in Southeast Asia."

Al Hubbard, national coordinator of the VVAW, said the demonstrators came from an encampment of veterans near Valley Forge, Pa. He said they would not resist with violence if authorities tried to evict them.

"There will be no violent confrontation with the police," Hubbard declared. "They will use their resourcefulness to prevent the police from dislodging them. They are in good spirits."

"The training the Army gave them was very good and prepared them for all eventualities. Reconnaissance teams were sent out to the statue before this action was taken. We are in constant touch with them," he said.

Jerry D. Wagers, regional director of the National Park Service, arrived on the island about 1:30 a.m. to talk with James Batman, the resident manager, and the demonstrators.

At one point the officials offered to allow the protesters to hold a news conference if they gave up the occupation. There was no immediate indication that the offer would be accepted.

Two Drown in Lake Hamilton

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—

The bodies of two men who drowned when their boat apparently capsized have been recovered from Lake Hamilton.

Garland County authorities recovered Saturday the bodies of Thomas Ray Harper, 25, of Louisville, Ky., and Barry Ashkanazy, 28, of New York, N.Y. Officers said both were employed by a horse trainer at the Oaklawn Park track in Hot Springs.

Police said their boat apparently turned over Friday.

Criticizes Butz Farm Policies

WARREN, Ark. (AP)—

Jack G. Coleman, who says he is considering running for Congress in the 4th District, said Sunday night that President Nixon and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz favored "agribusiness" over family owned farms.

Coleman said in Warren that Nixon and Butz wanted big corporations to dominate "the life blood of American agriculture."

350 U.S. Bombers Hit Supply Depots

SAIGON (AP) — An armada of 350 American fighter-bombers pounded antiaircraft defenses and supply depots in North Vietnam around the clock tonight. "Every sign points to further operations," said informants, indicating a third day of heavy raids Tuesday.

It was the biggest air attack on North Vietnam since President Johnson's bombing halt three years ago.

North Vietnam claimed that five F4 Phantoms were shot down Sunday, two of them by antiaircraft fire about 80 miles south of Hanoi. Radio Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today U.S. planes will continue to hit North Vietnam when necessary to protect the safety of diminishing U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

At the same time, Laird accused North Vietnam of violating understandings he said they gave in 1968 when the sustained U.S. bombing of North Vietnam ended.

said two American airmen were killed when their plane crashed nose first into a rice field. Earlier Radio Hanoi said that other "pilots were killed or captured" but gave no numbers.

The U.S. Command remained silent on Hanoi's claims and withheld details of the raids. But field reports from search and rescue units indicated there had been some American losses.

Informants said President Nixon ordered the raids in retaliation for the loss of six U.S. planes in the past 2½ weeks and as a warning to Hanoi "not to push" the United States too far. It was the ninth large-scale air operation inside North Vietnam that has been announced since May 1970.

The U.S. Command said the attacks were made "in reaction to enemy activity which imperils the diminishing U.S. forces currently in South Vietnam."

Air War Escalated in Laos, South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — As the United States intensified its air attacks on North Vietnam's supply lines to Laos and South Vietnam, the North Vietnamese intensified their attacks on the American planes. Now the Americans are hitting back at the enemy's antiaircraft defenses in a big way.

The escalation of the air war revolves around two mountain passes on the border between North Vietnam and Laos, the Barthelmy and the Mu Gia passes. Guns, bullets and food flow from the interior of North Vietnam through the passes to North Vietnamese troops fighting in northern Laos, in South Vietnam and in Cambodia.

The United States has been hitting these two passes with hundreds of air strikes in efforts to slow the flow of war supplies. But as the United States increased its air strikes, the North Vietnamese increased their attacks on the American planes, trying to keep the passes open.

The Barthelmy pass lies on Highway 7, 150 miles southwest of Hanoi and 235 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone. Supplies go through the pass to North Vietnamese troops fighting in northern Laos. Despite the heavy U.S. air strikes, the North Vietnamese captured the Plain of Jars last week and inflicted heavy losses on the Laotian defenders.

The Mu Gia pass, 160 miles farther south, is the beginning

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon has arrived here to meet with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt for the fourth in a series of six summit talks he is having with allied leaders.

"The President feels this is a particularly timely point to have further discussion with Brandt, and he is looking forward to them," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said after Nixon's arrival here Sunday night. "He feels they will be productive, as the others have been."

They will meet Tuesday and Wednesday. Nixon, anticipating his trip to Peking in late February and to Moscow in late May, met earlier this month with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, French President Georges Pompidou and British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

He will confer next week with Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif. At a later date in Washington, he will meet with the Italian prime minister.

The American and West German leaders will talk in one of two bayfront homes Nixon owns here. Secretary of State William P. Rogers flew to Florida with the President and he will meet simultaneously in a nearby hotel with his Bonn counterpart, Foreign Minister Walter Scheel.

Nixon, just before flying here, placed a telephone call to Washington Redskins Coach George Allen to commiserate on the Redskins 24-20 loss to the San Francisco 49ers in the National Football League playoff game in the Bay City.

Ziegler said Nixon watched the contest on television and told Allen afterward: "You can be proud that you had a good season. It was a fine game."

All Around Town

According to the weekly City Police Department report there were two charged with traffic violations... six with license violations... two on liquor counts... seven charged with drunkenness... four for driving while intoxicated... one for carrying a concealed weapon... one escape... three accidents were investigated with one person injured... for the year there have been 364 accidents with 85 persons injured and four deaths resulting.

The Arkansas Baptist news magazine of December 23 carries a two page article along with a picture by Rosalie Givens Alderman of Hope, Ark. on "Heart Disease and a New Destiny"... it is very interesting and if you don't have a copy borrow one from a Baptist as its well worth your time

Some 90 children of Hope were guest of Operation Goodwill Christmas party on December 23... the second annual event, sponsored by the Student Council, was held in the old high school gymnasium... the children played games, listened to Christmas music by the HHS Madrigals, heard a story of Christmas from the Rev. Gordon Renshaw and were served refreshments... then Santa distributed toys and stockings stuffed with fruit and candy... principal donors were the Lions Club with $400... Kiwanis Club $350... Rotary Club $250 and Anderson-Frazier $100.

Paul Huddleston, a native of Hope and head coach at Liberty-Eylau, Texas, has been named Northeast Texas Coach of the Year... he is married and the father of two children... his mother is Mrs. W.B. Huddleston of Hope Nixon is expected to return to Washington in time to see his wife Pat, who did not make this trip, off on a 10-day African tour that begins New Year's Day.

Hijacked Canadian Jet Returns

TORONTO AP — An Air Canada DC7 jetliner returned to Toronto with its six crew members today after a trip to Cuba ordered by a hijacker wielding a revolver and a hand grenade.

The armed man took over the plane as it neared Toronto just before 8 p.m. Sunday at the end of a round trip flight to Thunder Bay, Ont., on the northwestern shore of Lake Superior.

The other 32 passengers got off at Toronto and some of them did not know the plane had been hijacked. After refueling the plane flew to Havana landing just before midnight. The unidentified hijacker got off the plane, refueled again, and then it returned to Toronto, setting down at 5:45 a.m. after a three-hour flight home.

The six crew members were rushed to a nearby hotel for rest, and newsmen had no chance to question them.

A spokesman for the Canadian Ministry of External Affairs said the Canadian ambassador to Cuba, K.C. Brown, will try to persuade Cuban authorities to extradite the hijacker.

Air Canada officials said he was a small man, apparently of Latin origin but spoke good English. He handed a stewardess a note about five minutes before the plane was to land in Toronto. The note said: "Think. We have fragmentation grenades and a .38-caliber revolver. Take me to the captain. We are going to Havana. This is no joke."

Despite the use of "We," an airline spokesman said only one man was believed involved.

Pilots Killed When F4 Jet Crashes

HONG KONG AP — Two American pilots were killed when their F4 fighter-jet crashed nose first into a rice field after North Vietnamese anti-aircraft fire hit it Sunday about 80 miles south of Hanoi, Radio Hanoi reported today.

Another F4 Phantom was shot down in the same area, the Ham Rong district of Thanh Hoa province, the Vietnamese-language broadcast said, it did not say what happened to its two-man crew.

The North Vietnamese radio reported earlier that five Phantoms were shot down during the heavy American attack Sunday, including two others over Quang Binh province and another over Nghe An province. That broadcast said the pilots were killed or captured.

Man Found Dead in Airliner

CHICAGO AP — The body of an unidentified man was found late Sunday in the nose wheel well of a Delta Airlines jet-propeller aircraft shortly after it landed at O'Hare International Airport in a flight from Atlanta.

Police said the man may have tumbled into the well as a slowway in Atlanta. He was described as being about 40 and dressed in white overalls and vest. A search of the body revealed a letter addressed only to "Bob."

When asked if the man could have been a Delta mechanic, an airline spokesman in Atlanta said none of its employees was missing. The spokesman also said Delta mechanics wear grey overalls.

Police theorized that the man may have died of oxygen starvation or exposure, or he may have been crushed to death by the retracting landing gear after take-off.

Death Sentences in Istanbul

ISTANBUL, Turkey AP — A martial law court handed down death sentences today to two men and three women for their part in urban terrorism that flared in the kidnapping murder of an Israeli diplomat.

The court sentenced the sentences of the three women to life imprisonment, taking into consideration their status.

The men were university students Nedim Demir and Kamal Tede. Among the women was Bakay Demir, wife of Nedim and

1971 CONSTRUCTION

At Rogers, Littleville and the Hope, Ark. and TG & Y. Some further expansion is also planned at Littleville.

Other projects include a new Howard Johnson Center completed in early fall and now occupied by the firm. Further north of Littleville, Foster entered a new industrial building now occupied by K & L Marine Company. The fourth project includes a new Gunter service station.

The last 1971 saw the beginning of excavating work on the new 100,000 sq. ft. Company's truckstop, motel and restaurant complex, located on several acres just north of I-40 overpass on Highway 1 and Inter-State 30. Construction work got underway in early December on the new Spears Carpet Mill building located on 21 acres of land in the north industrial park area which is just north of Inter-State 30 on Highway 23. This will be an all-metal, fireproof building with insulated roof and side walls and will contain 74,000 square feet of heated space.

Other projects in Hope classified as commercial construction include the new educational building of First Baptist Church, completed at a cost of $230,000.

In this category, a new Catholic Church building was completed on East Third Street at a cost of $80,000. Also in the church category, excavation work has begun on the new First United Methodist Church building site on Highway 29 South. No cost figures have been announced for this new Methodist building.

In the educational category, the Blevins School district completed a new $140,000 fireproof gymnasium, one of the finest in all South Arkansas, and held its first basketball game in the new facility on October 22. Curtis Pharr is superintendent there.

To the south, Supt. Lloyd Baker of the Bodcaw schools announced the completion of a new classroom building costing in excess of $100,000. The building was occupied in early September.

And to the northwest, Supt. of Schools M.H. Peebles of Saratoga announced a new addition to the high school gymnasium there, cost of $40,000.

Additional commercial construction in Hope this year was the erection of a new Apo service station and car-wash on North Hazel Street, and the beginning of construction of the new Davis Discount building and supply store at the end of South Main Street on land formerly owned by Miles Laha.

Stephens Wholesale Grocer company purchased additional land and expanded its building near the post office, adding additional warehouse space and installing a refrigeration and frozen foods department.

While 1971 was a banner year, let's take a brief look into 1972. Many projects are in "the mill" but some have yet to be firmly up pending installation of utility lines and completion of blueprint planning.

On November 3 of this year voters streamed to the voting polls and approved by an overwhelming majority an Act 9 bond issue on two separate projects for the Proving Ground area. The first issue was for the Tennessee Forging Steel Corporation to locate a new steel fabricating plant.

The second issue was the approval of an expansion project for Permaneer Corporation. At the same time Permaneer announced that it would locate a new furniture manufacturing plant here. These projects will run into the millions of dollars in construction and equipment installation costs and will mean hundreds of additional new jobs for area residents, and new people moving into town.

It will also call for more residential construction and probably at an accelerated pace. In the construction industry it's long been said that money spent in every new home generates four times meaning that money spent for labor materials supplies turns over four times and boosts the economy all along the line.

How has all this progress in 1971 affected the people? In general there is a new attitude, a new drive, people are more ambitious, energetic, co-operative, and at this high economy level life is exceedingly good.

Thousands See Bank Holdup in Germany

By PETER REHAK Associated Press Writer

COLLENE, Germany AP — Three gunmen held to a bank opposite the Cologne Cathedral today and drove away with two police hostages. Armed police and thousands of spectators helplessly watched the noon drama.

The gunmen took with them the equivalent of $60,000 in West German marks. The hostages, described as high-ranking police officers, had exchanged themselves for employees of the branch bank. The robbers had seized three employees after being surprised by the arrival of a police patrol.

The patrol shot out three of the tires on the robbers' getaway car.

There followed two hours of negotiations between the police and robbers. This ended with the police agreeing to supply a minibus as a getaway car and the exchange of police for the original hostages.

Then one of the hostages, identified as district Police Chief Hans Krauss, came out of the bank and called out over a

Hoffa Plans to Make Home in Detroit

ST. LOUIS AP — Former Teamsters Union President James Hoffa, released from prison last week, planned to end a visit with relatives today and fly to Detroit to make his home.

Hoffa's lawyer, Morris Shenger, said the former labor leader would conference with a parole official soon after reaching Detroit. Shenger said he and Hoffa wanted to know details of restrictions President Nixon imposed in granting Hoffa his freedom Thursday.

In commuting Hoffa's 12-year sentence for jury tampering and mail fraud to 6½ years, Nixon said Hoffa could not become involved in union management until 1980, when his prison term would have ended. Hoffa served 57 points in prison.

Shenger said Sunday that Hoffa, 58, thoroughly enjoyed his Christmas holiday with his wife and family.

"He is finally getting rested a little," Shenger said.

The lawyer said earlier Hoffa was not thinking about making an effort to lift the restriction on union activity.

"I want to know what the full restrictions are. We're not going off the top of our head with decisions," Hoffa said.

Militant Sees Acquittal as Victory for People

By EDITH M. LEDERER

And JEANNINE YEOMANS Associated Press Writers

PALESTINE, N.Y. AP — Black revolutionary Angela Davis says if she is acquitted of murder charges it will be a victory for the people, not the American system.

However, she said, if I am convicted, I will see the jurors as having been willing to unwilling accomplices in a conspiracy presented by the state.

As she prepares for trial Jan. 31, she worries that some people are supporting her only because they believe she had nothing to do with the bloody Aug. 7, 1970, shootout at the Marin County Civic Center in which four persons died.

"I had nothing to do with August 7th. That's true and that should be said and I say it also," she said.

But the 37-year-old, self-described Communist and former UCLA philosophy instructor said Americans must understand the forces that led to those deaths—and work to eradicate them.

In an interview in a jail visiting room, Miss Davis said: "People have to realize, they have to see August 7th as being more or less a dramatization of things that had been festering under the surface in the prison system for so long."

I think the fact that Richard Maceo and James McClain and William Christmas had to attempt to gain their freedom in such a way—and I'm not saying that they had any intention of using any violence, and I think the facts will bear this out—it's important to understand what the forces are that led them to that point in the first place. Why?"

McClain and Christmas, both San Quentin convicts, were killed in an attempted escape from the courthouse. Their hostage, Superior Court Judge Harold Haley, and Miss Davis, constant companion, Jonathan Jackson, 17, also were killed and Maceo was wounded.

Of Haley's death, Miss Davis said: "I'm very sorry. If we could have a revolution without shedding any blood, that's the way it should be."

But when you look at that, when you compare that one act, when you compare that to say one act of rebellion in the black community, when you compare the hundreds and hundreds of years and the millions of people that have been killed, it just doesn't seem to me to be rational for someone to get so upset about one person that they fail to understand the other side.

This, I think, is the important thing, and this is going to be really difficult in the trial," she said.

If free today, Miss Davis said she would work to abolish the prison system.

Right now, however, her world is confined to two 6-by-8 foot cells in the Santa Clara County jail where she says she reads, writes, chain-smokes four packs of cigarettes a day and wears hiking boots and sweaters to keep warm.

She speaks about the isolation of being in jail and not being able to feel and experience what's happening on the outside. She is under court order not to talk directly about the case.

Miss Davis is accused of furnishing the four guns and helping plot what the prosecution says was an abortive attempt to take hostages in exchange for the freedom of the Soledad Brothers—three black prisoners accused of murdering a white guard Jan. 16, 1970.

Miss Davis said she was in love with one of the Soledad Brothers, Jonathan's older brother George Jackson, who was killed at San Quentin Prison last Aug. 21.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Television pulled off its usual post-Christmas magic trick on Sunday. "Deck the Halls" and Santa suddenly disappeared and "Auld Lang Syne" just as suddenly returned for a week's stay. Network television's epidemic of reruns ended Sunday, too, as the major rating service, after taking a week off, resumed today its electronic count of audience sizes.

The Public Broadcasting stations presented a two-hour adaptation of a 40-year-old British comedy classic, "Cold Comfort Farm," the most interesting item around on Sunday. It was the most unusual item, too, in the imported "Masterpiece Theatre" repertoire.

The American viewer had to be grateful for preliminary guidance given by host Alistair Cooke. It was the lunatic story of a perky Pollyanna-type young woman who moved onto a primitive farm inhabited by a pack of quite mad relatives.

There was the matriarch of the family, a recluse who when a girl saw "something nasty in the woodshed"—centipedes. There was her son-in-law, a hell-fire and damnation lay preacher and his brooding and morbid wife and a vast assortment of grunting oafs and screaming wenches.

Flora the heroine was determined to civilize her insane relatives and she succeeded by some Mary Poppins-style ruses. She cleaned up the family, solved their problems, married off one couple and turned one oaf into a movie star.

Cooke fortunately warned American viewers not to worry when they failed to understand some of the strange accents used, observing that the English audiences had the same problem.

Oscar Deadline Near for Hollywood Folks

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's that time of year when film reviewers go bleary-eyed and movie publicists start fattening their expense accounts. It's Oscar time.

Dec. 31 is the deadline for entries in the annual awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Inevitably, the last two weeks of the year bring a flood of previews, premieres, special screenings and visits to Hollywood by stars and directors who have made the Oscar hopefuls.

Christmas may be the season to be jolly, but for the film trade it marks the beginning of campaigns to win Oscars—and hence extra millions at the box office. Already movie ads carry the special message: "Attention Academy members: Your card will admit you and a guest to any performance Sunday through Thursday."

What kind of a race is it? Alas, not a very strong one. The year 1971 won't be registered as vintage for film quality. With exceptions like "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Nicholas and Alexandra," most of the film product have been "little" pictures, reflecting the penny-pinching needs of the current economy.

Some of the little pictures, notably "The Last Picture Show," have produced quality. But many were too drab or sex-charged, or both.

Here is one reporter's assessment of the Oscar race as it shapes up now—probable nominees are listed more or less in order of their relative strength: Best picture—"Nicholas and Alexandra," "Carnal Knowledge," "The Last Picture Show," "Fiddler on the Roof," "The French Connection," "Sunday Bloody Sunday," "A Clockwork Orange," "The Boy Friend," "Summer of '42," "Mary, Queen of Scots," "Kluge," "Macbeth," "Kotch," "A Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," "Hospital," "Best actor—Peter Finch, "Sunday Bloody Sunday," Walter Matthau, "Kotch," Gene Hackman, "The French Connection," George C. Scott, "Hospital," Jack Nicholson, "Carnal Knowledge," Topol, "Fiddler on the Roof," Timothy Bottoms, "The Last Picture Show," Paul Scofield, "King Lear," Michael Jayston and Tom Baker, "Nicholas and Alexandra," Tom Courtney, "A Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," Jon Finch, "Macbeth," Dustin Hoffman, "Straw Dogs," Malcolm McDowell, "A Clockwork Orange."

Recipe To Keep Kids Happy

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor
A 46-page booklet called "Recipes for Busy Little Hands" compiled by Doreen Craft and emanating from nursery school of work, includes a charming recipe:

RECIPE FOR A HAPPY DAY

1 cup of friendly words
2 heaping cups of understanding
4 heaping teaspoons of time and patience

Pinch of warm personality
Dash of humor

Instructions for mixing: Measure words carefully. Add heaping cups of understanding, use generous amounts of time and patience. Cook on the front burner but keep temperature low; do not boil. Add generous dash of humor and a pinch of warm personality. Season to taste with spice of life. Serve in individual molds.

Besides recipes for paint, plastic art, finger plays and other things children can do, "Recipes for Busy Little Hands" contains food recipes. A list of suggestions for letting children help in kitchen work is worth noting.

Let children shell and cook peas.

Make popcorn in an electric popper with a glass top so children can see what is happening.

Let children dice cooked potatoes for salad with blunt knives.

Make pizza with English muffin halves, tomato sauce, cheese.

LONDON (AP) — The managing director of Jacobs Roller Skates, Britain's leading skate manufacturers, can usually be found helping out with the work on the shop floor.

She's the one with the blonde hair and the powder-pink mini. Her 40-odd employees say Barbara Jacobs is the hottest thing on wheels in the busy London suburb of Wood Green.

Catapaulted from the kitchen stove to the board room two years ago by the death of her husband, she was forced to come to grips with balance sheets and business sharks virtually overnight. And it wasn't easy.

Within a few weeks the factory burned down and 38-year-old Barbara found it was under-insured. She negotiated temporary premises while rebuilding was under way, sold her home to pay death duties, moved into a two-family house and joined the boys at the work bench.

Today, business is expanding under a vigorous export drive that has won orders from such unlikely places as Iceland and the Middle East, but has not made inroads into the American market.

"She just says 'Get on with it,'" explains office manager Steve Taverner, "and they do. Just after the fire, while we were still under temporary roofing, she sat opposite me at the bench nutting and bolting and riveting with the best of them. We had a record day's production."

"Women are stronger and harder-headed than any man," adds Barbara. "And more sympathetic. We had one lad who needed quite a bit of understanding. He smashed a factory window, knocked all my pot plants down, and broke the office manager's watch with a stone. I could have cried."

The boy was asked to leave, but Barbara helped him find a new job first.

Outside the factory, her main interests are her home and her 15-year-old daughter Susan.

"I've never liked going out. My home is my life, so what should I do but the washing and ironing?"

The thesis would not please many militants, and Barbara couldn't care less.

"I'm not one for Women's Lib or anything like that," she says firmly. "It's for women who haven't got anything to do anyway. If they want to come down to Jacobs and do a day's work with me, they're welcome."

Charles Jarrott, "Mary, Queen of Scots," Norman Jewison, "Fiddler on the Roof," John Schlesinger, "Sunday Bloody Sunday," Jack Lemmon, "Kotch," Joseph Losey, "The Go-between," Roman Polanski, "Macbeth," Hal Ashby, "Harold and Maude," Robert Mulligan, "Summer of '42," Alan Pakula, "Kluge," Ken Russell, "The Boy Friend."

They can't all win. Five in each category will be nominated Feb. 22. The final winners will be known when the industry gathers once more at the Los Angeles Music Center on April 10.

Pine Bluff Youth Honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald A. Coleman, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Coleman of Pine Bluff, has been named a recipient of a fellowship from the Washington Journalism Center.

The center awards fellowships to persons with experience in the news media and to young members of racial minorities interested in journalism. Coleman, a Negro, was one of 16 recipients named Sunday to receive the fellowship for 15 weeks of work and study in Washington. Each recipient receives $2,500 for living expenses.

Coleman will graduate from Morehouse College in Atlanta in January. His father is executive director of the Arkansas Council on Human Relations.

Robert Lowery, Actor, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Robert Lowery, 57, who played roles ranging from gangster to newspaper reporter in more than 50 movies in the 1930s, died Sunday. He sometimes was mistaken for Clark Gable.

He died of an apparent heart attack.

Inactive in movies, Lowery had run a drama school and worked in television.

His movies include "The Mark of Zorro," "Young Mr. Lincoln," "Drums Along the Mohawk," "The Rise and Fall of Legs Diamond" and "Arson Inc."

Lowery was married three times—to actresses Barbara Farrell, Jan Parker and Vivian Wilcox. He had a son, Robert, now 18, by Miss Parker.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Her Values Confused

Dear Helen:

I went to stay with my sick sister in another state for about six weeks.

While I was gone, my husband's best friend (female) stayed in our home to take care of him. She's a good housekeeper and cook.

Now that I'm home, I find a very expensive set of pearls and my mother's wedding ring set is missing. I also discovered a gold brooch that belonged to my mother on the floor under our bed. It had been in the box with the other prized family jewelry.

How can I get this irreplaceable jewelry back without causing a disturbance?—TOOK

Dear Took:

Perhaps this "best friend of your husband's" figures if you are willing to share your man, you won't quibble over a few pieces of jewelry. Let them know where your values lie and you may get your "irreplaceable" possessions back.

But I still think you're worrying about the wrong theft.—H.

Dear Helen:

I have four adorable nieces.

We have two fine sons, aged eight and ten, but no daughters, so we especially enjoy these little girls. We buy them inexpensive gifts and have them over often. They return our love—but never in the presence of their mother!

When she is around, they're standoffish and quiet because, though she's a fine person in every other way, she becomes angry and terribly possessive when others give attention to her children.

Here are examples:

1. She made her daughters refuse ice cream we bought for them and our sons. Said she "could buy cones for them herself."

2. She tore out the ribbon I put in her two-year-old's hair when I baby-sat. Said she didn't like ribbons.

3. She ripped off a dress I bought for my godchild (her oldest daughter) and said the color was wrong for her. Most of our gifts she throws away.

3. She will not allow me or my husband to help dish out food to the children when we are together for family meals, though she helped our sons when they were younger.

Needless to say, these episodes upset the youngsters and cause tears. I "keep my distance," but sometimes it's hard, with kids you truly love.

Yet my sister-in-law is kind and loving in other ways, and so good to our sons. She only becomes hostile when I try discussing this with her.

Are these over-possessive mothers afraid their children will stop loving them if they also love other people?—CONFUSED AUNT

Dear Aunt:

Over-possessiveness stems from jealousy, which has its roots in insecurity. And insecure people are constantly fearful that others are better loved.

I hope your sister-in-law will somehow come to realize that love is like an outdoor climbing plant: Push it into a small, dark, stifling place and, even though pampered, it soon dies. But if you let it grow naturally, with only a little "direction," it reaches out to become stronger and more beautiful each day.—H.

49ers, Dallas, Miami and Hope Star Colts in the Pro Finals

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Don't look back," was the message from the White House. Unfortunately, it went to the Washington Redskins, who have nowhere else to look until next season.

It's San Francisco, Dallas, Baltimore and Miami that aren't looking back today. They're looking forward to the one final step that leads to New Orleans and Super Bowl VI.

The 49ers and Cowboys will go at it next Sunday in Dallas in a repeat performance of their clash of a year ago for the National Conference championship.

Dallas, which won that battle 17-10—only to lose 16-13 to Baltimore in the Super Bowl—earned the right Saturday to shoot for the conference crown again by muzzling the Minnesota Vikings 20-12.

And on Sunday, the 49ers earned the right to take another shot at the Cowboys by rallying to edge Washington's Redskins 24-20.

In the American Conference scraps, Miami and Kansas City engaged in the longest game in pro football history Saturday before Garo Yepremian's 37-yard field goal booted the Dolphins to a 27-24 triumph.

And Baltimore, with Johnny Unitas picking apart the Cleveland defense and the Colts' defense smothering the Browns' attack, breezed to a 20-3 victory and the chance for a third game this season against Miami, also on Sunday.

"We made too many mistakes and they didn't make any," Redskins Coach George Allen sighed. Three of the biggest were a bad guess, a bad pass and a bad snap.

The guess came with Washington leading 10-3 early in the third quarter and a fourth-down-and-inches-to-go on the San Francisco 11-yard line. Allen gambled that "Skins could make the first down—and guessed wrong."

Three plays later the game was tied as 49ers' quarterback John Brodie and wide receiver Gene Washington teamed on a 74-yard touchdown bomb.

The bad pass by Washington quarterback Billy Kilmer came only minutes later. Roosevelt Taylor intercepted it to set up Brodie's two-yard scoring strike to tight end Bo Windsor.

And the bad snap cost the Skins the game. It squibbed past punter Mike Bragg and bounced into the end zone, where the 49ers' Bob Hoskins pounced on it for a touchdown.

Bruce Gossett added the other San Francisco points with a field goal while Curt Knight booted two for Washington and Kilmer passed for a pair of touchdowns.

Don Nottingham, subbing for injured Norm "Bo" Bulaich in the Baltimore backfield, wound up with 92 yards rushing and two touchdowns while the Colts limited the entire Cleveland ground game to a mere 69 yards.

"Bo is a better runner overall and he's a better receiver," Colts Coach Don McCafferty said. "However, we got a great job from Nottingham here, especially when you consider he's a rookie coming into his home area to play."

While Nottingham was grinding up the Browns and Unitas was shredding them—the cagey quarterback completed 13 of 21 passes for 143 yards—Bubba Smith was standing atop a defensive wall that yielded only one field goal. Bubby personally blocked two others.

The Cowboys, with the No. 1 offense in the NFC, finally got it rolling against the Vikings' No. 1 defense after taking only a 6-3 halftime lead. But it was the Dallas defense that actually ignited it.

Cliff Harris' interception of a Bob Lee pass set up the Cowboys' first touchdown, a 13-yard Duane Thomas scamper on the very next play. Tom Baker's 52-yard pass to the Dolphins' tight end, Bill Sharman, capped the drive with a five-yard run to the end zone.

The Kansas City-Miami clash was a nerve-rattling affair, starting with the Chiefs repeatedly taking the lead and the Dolphins repeatedly rallying to obliterate it.

Kansas City seemed set to win it in regulation play when Ed Plunkett slammed over from three yards out with 6:45 to go. But quarterback Bob Griese brought the Dolphins right back to tie it 24-24 with 1:36 remaining on a five-yard touchdown pass to Mary Fleming.

Then it seemed a sure bet that Kansas City would win it with 35 seconds still on the clock—but, incredibly, Jan Stenerud's 32-yard field goal attempt sailed wide to the right.

He also had a chance to win it for Kansas City in the first overtime with a 42-yarder. But this time Nick Buoniconti blocked the boot.

Then, finally, 22 minutes and 40 seconds after the fourth quarter had ended, and on the 4th play of overtime, Yepremian booted the Chiefs to the sidelines and the Dolphins to victory.

Lakers Make It 28 Games Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Los Angeles Lakers' record National Basketball Association winning streak has reached 28 games, but Coach Bill Sharman still is hungry for more victories.

"Heck, I'd like to win 10, 15 or 20 more in a row," Sharman said after the Lakers had demolished the Houston Rockets 137-115 with an 81-point second half Sunday night.

"It's a pattern with us," explained Sharman. "We dribble and stand around too much in the first half before we get going. We run much better in the second half, and when we're running like that, nobody can stop us."

No team has stopped the Lakers since Oct. 31, when they suffered their last defeat, 109-105 to the Golden State Warriors.

And no team has stopped the Lakers this season when they have had Jerry West in the lineup. West has played 32 games—Los Angeles has won them all. In the five games he missed, the team was 2-3.

Against the Rockets, West was sensational. He hit 14 of 17 field goal attempts and 10 of 13 free throws for a game-high 34 points. He also collected 17 assists.

Gail Goodrich added 28 points for Los Angeles. Jim McMillian, who suffered a seven-stitch wound in his right cheekbone in a collision with Houston's Cliff Meely, had 20 points. And Happy Hairston netted 15 points and grabbed 21 rebounds.

Elvin Hayes scored 33 points for Houston and Stu Lantz had 28.

The Lakers, held to a 36-56 deadlock at halftime, outscored Houston 41-45 and 40-24 in the final two periods.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday night, Milwaukee trounced Atlanta 114-92, Chicago edged Seattle 103-102, and Cleveland defeated Baltimore 108-102.

Milwaukee, led by Kareem Jabbar's 24 points and John Block's 19, battled back from an early 10-point deficit to overtake Atlanta. Lou Hudson was high for the Hawks with 27 points.

Jerry Sloan's field goal with 1:12 remaining gave Chicago its victory over Seattle. Bob Love topped the Bulls with 28 points and Chet Walker had 25. Spencer Haywood led the SuperSonics with 26.

John Johnson scored a career high of 40 points and Walt Wesley went over the 4,000-point mark for his career in Cleveland's triumph over Baltimore.

No Trouble for Ali, Gets a Knockout

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — After shooting down Juergen Blin, Muhammad Ali has his sights on another target. It won't be Joe Frazier, though.

"Not until late next year, at the earliest," Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer, said Sunday in answer to questions about a possible rematch with the heavy-weight champion.

Ali, who knocked out Blin in the seventh round Sunday with a crippling right cross, is expected to fight again as early as March in Miami Beach. The opponent hasn't been named yet.

The former champion didn't appear to be looking ahead, though, when he took on the West German butcher before 9,000 fans at Zurich's Hallenstadion Arena.

"Blin was tougher than a lot of fights I've had," said Brian London, Buster Mathis and the first Jerry Quarry fight, said Ali, talking over music in his dressing room.

While a brilliantly-dressed African ballet troupe serenaded the flamboyant American boxer, Ali recounted the "difficulties" of the fight.

"Blin was no surprise, he was just tough," said Ali, flashing that well-known handsome smile. "He was hard to hit. He took a lot and just kept coming."

Ali knocked out the German at 2:12 of the seventh round with a "short right cross that came after he was set up by a left hook."

Unmarked by Blin, Ali said that he cut his opponent's cheekbones with left jabs. Blin had often boasted that he had never been cut in the face during a fight.

Ali had built a clear lead as he fired left hooks and jabs in the face of the blond German, whose cheekbones were cut in the fifth round.

Blin attempted to combat the longer reach of the former world champion with brawling charges, forcing Ali into the ropes in every round. But Ali was clearly superior with his blazing lefts that jarred the German from long range.

In the seventh, Blin dropped to his knees on the ropes near his corner, shaking his head. He was obviously unable to rise as referee Sepp Suter of Switzerland counted him out.

Bowl Playoffs Get Started Tonight

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — College Football's first family, the Majors of Tennessee, ends a colorful 19-season era in tonight's Shrine North-South game.

"Guess this is it until the next generation," said Johnny Majors, 36, who began it all as a University of Tennessee freshman tailback in 1953.

"College football has been great to the Majors family ... and I hope we've added something to the game."

Bobby Majors, the last of five brothers, was an All-American safety at Tennessee this year and will patrol the secondary for the South in the all-star charity event.

His big brother, Johnny, will coach the North. The older Majors is now head coach at Iowa State.

Kickoff is scheduled for the nationally televised (ABC) game is set for 9:10 p.m., EST, with the Orange Bowl crowd expected to top 25,000. The North has won the last five games to tie the series at 11-11.

From Johnny to Bobby, the sons of Shirley and Elizabeth Majors have added punch to college football for almost two decades. Shirley does his part, too. The father has been head coach at the University of the South in Seawee, Tenn., since 1967.

Johnny was an All-American tailback in 1956 at Tennessee. The second son, Joe, played quarterback at Florida State. Billy was a standout tailback at Tennessee, finishing in 1960.

Larry went with poppa, starting as a Seawee tailback through 1965. Then came Bobby, a defender and kick returner who may have been the pick of the litter.

The North-South contest is one of two postseason games on Monday's schedule. Arizona State, 10-1, and Florida State, 8-3, clash in the first annual Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz. Arizona State is the nation's eighth-ranked team.

The Fiesta Bowl will match Arizona State's potent ground game, headed by sophomore Woody Green, against Florida State's spectacular passing duo of Gary Huff and Rhett Dawson.

The rest of the week's college schedule: Tuesday—Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.; Toledo vs. Richmond; Blue-Gray Game at Montgomery, Ala.

Thursday—Peach Bowl at Atlanta, Mississippi vs. Georgia Tech.

Friday—Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.; Georgia vs. North Carolina; East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco; Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Colorado vs. Houston.

Cougars Win Over NY Nets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"You know," Jim McDaniels was saying, "I grew four inches in three months once in high school and my mother thought I was going to be eight feet tall and some kind of monster."

His mother's worst fears never were realized.

McDaniels stopped growing at a mere seven feet, and he has not turned into a monster ... just a terror to American Basketball Association rivals of the Carolina Cougars.

Sunday night, he terrorized New York, scoring 38 points and grabbing a game-high 20 rebounds, leading the Cougars to a 123-117 victory over the Nets.

Indiana downed Kentucky 117-111 in the other ABA game.

"This has to be one of McDaniels' greatest games," said Carl Scheer, Cougars' general manager, after the huge rookie had helped Carolina overcome the Nets, who led 94-86 at the end of three periods.

"He has all the physical tools to be one of the all-around great players in the game," continued Scheer. "If he can learn to improve his defense and to go to the boards more, he'll really be something."

George Lehmann chipped in with 23 points and 13 assists for the Cougars. Joe Caldwell sparked the final period rally with 15 points and finished with 21, while Larry Miller contributed 20.

Carolina's comeback offset a standout effort by the Nets' Rick Barry, who scored 44 points.

Indiana used a balanced scoring attack in beating Kentucky before a crowd of 14,661 in Louisville. Mel Daniels led the Pacers with 26 points, 23 in the first half when he hit 11 of 13 floor shots. Roger Brown added 25 points and Freddie Lewis scored 23. Dan Issel paced the Colonels with 28 points. Louie Dampier added 24 points, Artis Gilmore 22 and Cincy Powell 21.

In the ABA Saturday night, it was Virginia 133, Pittsburgh 126; Memphis 110, Carolina 102, and Utah 150, Indiana 129.

Driver Breaks Another Record

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Herve Filion, world record holder for career victories and most victories in one season by a harness racing driver, has added another mark to his illustrious string.

The little 31-year-old reinsman from Lachute, Que., set a world record at Windsor Park Sunday, piloting seven winners on one card. No driver ever had won more than six on a single program.

Filion, who started driving at 13, smashed the record by winning the first four races, the sixth, the seventh and the featured ninth. He climaxed his sensational performance by driving Dynamite to a half-length victory in the featured $5,000 Fleur de Lis Invitational Trot.

Filion's bid for an eighth victory was foiled when he finished third in the final race. For the 10 races, he had seven victories, two thirds and a fifth.

Filion holds the career record for victories with more than 3,450, and earlier this year he became the first harness racing driver to win more than 500 races in a season.

AIC Teams Meet at Pine Bluff

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The annual Kiwanis tournament at Pine Bluff, featuring four AIC teams, highlights a light schedule this week for the league's basketball teams.

In the opening game Wednesday night, unbeaten Ouachita will play Henderson. Southern State and State College of Arkansas will play the second game of the night.

The championship and consolation games are set for Thursday night.

The University of Arkansas at Monticello will play two games this week, meeting Albany State at McGehee Tuesday night and entertaining the University of Arkansas at Little Rock Thursday night.

Harding College and Baptist Bible College of Shreveport will play Thursday night at Searcy. AIC action will resume Jan. 3.

Women Have Outside Interests

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pot washers, casserole slingers, housewives, doctors, lawyers, merchants, pistol-packing mommas — Arkansas' women don't have to measure their year only by new facial wrinkles.

This is not to imply they abandoned the traditional role of wife and mother. Arkansas' women simply organized their routine to include outside interests.

The Bureau of Vital Statistics reports that from January through August of this year 11,819 marriages were performed in Arkansas.

During the same period there were 5,497 divorces.

In the first nine months of the year, the bureau reported 21,941 births.

For women in the political limelight, the year held surprises for some.

Mrs. Dale Bumpers, wife of the governor, completed her first year as Arkansas' first lady, a role she described as "quite a change" from her former life as the wife of a Charleston lawyer.

"It was surprising in some ways ... it was fun in some ways," she said.

She accepted her job with some reservations at the start of the year, saying she was concerned about the effect her increased duties might have on her family life.

However, she says that her three children have adapted well to life in the governor's mansion.

Mrs. Bob Riley, wife of the lieutenant governor, said "it has been a marvelous year."

She said she has been able to maintain an "erratic routine" at the Riley's house in Arkadelphia and has learned the secret of being prepared to go anywhere with her husband at a moment's notice.

"You keep the washing machine going—if your clothes are clean, you can do anything."

Pine Bluff's most famous daughter, Martha Mitchell, returned home for a visit in November.

In honor of the wife of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Mayor

Austin Franks of Pine Bluff declared the week of Nov. 22 Martha Mitchell week in Pine Bluff. Franks said her visit was "one of the highlights of my administration."

While she was in Pine Bluff, a story broke in Washington that Mrs. Mitchell has her own chauffeured sedan for which the government pays.

She expressed disgust at the story. Mrs. Mitchell said that all attorneys general wives had been given the cars.

In fact, she said, she had not only received a smaller car than the wife of the late Robert F. Kennedy, she also had used only one of the two chauffeured provided.

Another Arkansas woman found herself in the political spotlight was the wife of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who has been the object of a movement to win him the Democratic presidential nomination.

Polly Mills described her role in life as giving moral support to her husband.

She said she was "very much surprised" when the first talk of Mills as a presidential candidate began to catch fire.

"I thought it was an honor for him," she said. "He'd like to stay where he is, but then again he just might do it."

It was also a year of accomplishments.

Mrs. David D. Terry was given the 8th Annual Brotherhood Citation Award of the Arkansas Region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Mrs. Carolyn Stevenson, the wife of a Presbyterian minister, became the first woman to be graduated from the Law Enforcement Training Academy. She works with juveniles and women on the Benton police force.

Last summer, Marilyn Morgan, 19, of Clarksville was crowned the new Miss Arkansas.

Also a big winner was Mrs. Thomas Young, 58, of Searcy who won the 24th annual Delmarva Chicken Festival and the $10,000 top prize for her hors d'oeuvre creation.

"I can't paint a picture, but I am creative with food," she said. When I am happy —when I am blue. I get out in the kitchen and swing pots and pans."

For two 73-year-old Bismarck ladies, 1971 allowed them time to play golf.

Both Mrs. Addie Dixon and Mrs. Mary McDaniels play daily, weather permitting. They both shoot an average of 39 for nine holes on the par 35 Caddo Creek Country Club course.

"I just forget my troubles, everything is laid aside," Aunt Mary says. "It is the most enjoyable thing I have ever experienced."

"It is a nice sport — as nice as we've got," Aunt Mary said. She also declares she will play golf "as long as I can tote a club and walk or ride."

It is also a year when two women's leaders, on opposite political fences, disagreed about the accomplishments of women in Bumpers' administration.

"Dale Bumpers may not be a 'male chauvinist,' but he certainly hasn't done anything to benefit the female citizens of this state," said Mrs. Jerry Pruden of Hope, president of the Arkansas Federation of Republican Women.

Bumpers had said that since he took office in January the number of women employed in state government had declined by 1 per cent.

Mrs. Pruden said Bumpers would be "committing political suicide" if he did not include more women in state government.

But Mrs. Diane Kincaid of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, said that one week prior to Mrs. Pruden's statement, Bumpers had asked her commission to come up with a list of names for possible appointments to state boards and commissions.

Mrs. Kincaid said the commission was primarily interested in changing women's legal status in the state.

Along that line, Eugene Warren, who authored the current abortion law, stated he felt the law was not liberal enough.

Under the 1969 law, a woman must have the approval of three doctors to have an abortion.

"I doubt if the state has any proper place in the matter," he said.

1971 also saw disappointments.

The wife of Little Rock lawyer, Herschel Friday, expressed disappointment after her husband was passed over for a seat on the Supreme Court.

"To me, as his wife, the thing that hurts the most is that he would be turned down by the Judicial Committee of the American Bar Association — the organization he was so active in for 18 years." The committee voted 7-5 that Friday was not qualified to serve on the court.

Willie Brandt Changed His Image Fast

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer
BONN, Germany (AP) —

Only a few years ago opponents were maligning him as an "emigre and outcast." Now he is West Germany's first Socialist chancellor, and a Nobel laureate.

That's Willy Brandt, guest of President Nixon at this week's session of summitry. He is to visit the President Tuesday and Wednesday in Key Biscayne, Fla.

The stocky, gravel-voiced leader has used his office to lay the groundwork for a change in the political face of Europe. His stature in the 25 postwar years is likely to be rivaled only by Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's first chancellor, and President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Since his election in October 1969 Brandt can claim a straight run of success in improving his country's image abroad and its relations with its neighbors, especially in the East.

He is also credited with helping to break a stalemate on enlarging the European Common Market. Its relations with the United States and East-West problems are to be chief topics in his talks with Nixon.

The outside world has already paid tribute to Brandt by awarding him the Nobel Peace Prize for 1971. His own countrymen will get a chance to express their views in 1973 when they vote in a national election.

Brandt's success abroad has sometimes obscured the fact he rules with only a six-vote majority in the Bundestag against a parliamentary opposition that does not always share his view on Eastern policy.

Brandt has dealt with these opponents with confidence and conviction. One would be hard put to claim that success has spoiled Willy Brandt. His close aides say he was embarrassed by the Nobel Prize. His public statements have played it down.

An interviewer asked whether he thought the prize strengthened his position at home.

"I don't know," Brandt replied. "It was, in any case, a strong encouragement."

But he quickly added he does not want it to become part of "our domestic discussion between government and opposition."

The main object of opposition criticism has been the Brandt government's treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland, renouncing the use of force and acknowledging Germany's territorial losses in World War II.

The opposition contends he got nothing for the renunciations. Brandt says he gave up nothing that had not been given away long ago.

Renowned Auto Mechanic Dies

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — John Wills, renowned auto racing mechanic, died Christmas Day at a Nashville hospital. He was 53.

Wills was chief mechanic for many of the cars that competed at the Indianapolis 500.

He served as head mechanic for cars driven by A.J. Foyt, Tony Bettenhausen, Johnny Boyd, Bob Sweickert, Jerry Hoyt, Don Branson, Johnny Thompson and Bobby Marshman.

Services were set for 2 p.m. today at the Woodlawn Funeral Home in Nashville.

Laver Lead
Rod Laver won close to $300,000 in tennis tournaments this season. His nearest competitor, Tom Okker, only won around $120,000.

'Last Movie' Flop Surprises Hopper

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—"Easy Rider" was such a huge, revolutionary hit that everybody connected with it got to be considered an automatic genius. Peter Fonda, Dennis Hopper, Jack Nicholson, Monte Hellman—everybody connected with "Easy Rider" came to be thought of as apostles of the New Film.

They all rushed out to make their own movies. It is time now, to look at the record.

Fonda made "The Hired Hand." Hopper made "The Last Movie." Nicholson made "Drive, He Said." And Hellman made "Two-Lane Blacktop."

All bombed. Not just like fizzles, but large, noisy and explosive bombs.

All four learned that lightning not only doesn't strike twice, it doesn't even come close. "Easy Rider" was, apparently, a fluke. It happened accidentally, not because those four, or any one of them, had discovered the magic alchemy of movie-making.

I don't know about Fonda, Nicholson or Hellman, but Hopper blames himself for overestimating the American movie-going public.

"The Last Movie" isn't doing well," he said, greatly underestimating the situation. "And I'm frank to say that I am disappointed."

"I am disappointed mostly in myself, for expecting the public to appreciate it. And I am disappointed in the public because they're not ready for it and I thought they would be."

He doesn't cop out. He says "The Last Movie," which he spent so long in shooting and even longer in editing, is just the way he wanted it to be. He likes it. He is pleased with it. And he is proud of it. He believes that someday it will be considered a classic.

"I don't understand the public," he says. "I would think that, out of plain curiosity, they'd want to see Peter's film and Jack's film and Monte's film and my film. But they haven't gone. Even if the reviews were bad, I'd think they would want to judge for themselves. But they haven't."

He has come to wonder if the public which loved "Easy Rider" may have dropped out completely.

Just as he is surprised with the reaction to "The Last Movie," so he was also surprised with the reaction, initially, to "Easy Rider." That film and everything in it, generated its own folk lore.

"I picked cocaine," he says, "because it was so expensive and I didn't think it would become popular, as a result. But now it is on every street corner."

"I thought 'Easy Rider' was about criminals and their minds. But the public glorified them and made them heroes."

He says he has learned a valuable lesson from his experience with "The Last Movie."

"I've learned that Hollywood was right all along," he says. "The public just wants to be entertained. They don't want to work at movies."

"I'm going to make my next one simple, a veneer story. But first I'm going to do a couple of straight acting jobs—'Dime Box.' A Western will be the first—before I go to work on my own film."

His long-term goal, he says, is to establish a kind of cinematic kibbutz. The dream is to have a place where six directors would be permanent residents, along with two or three film crews. The idea would be to make films together and own perhaps a half-dozen theaters in key cities to show them in.

But that's a long way off. First, Dennis Hopper has to get back in sync with the tickle public.

Not Good Industrial Year for Arkansas

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — It was not one of Arkansas' better years in terms of industrial development.

The Arkansas Industrial Development Department released figures for fiscal year 1970-71 showing that 58 new plants came to Arkansas and 54 existing plants expanded.

The capital investment in those 112 plant developments was estimated at $90,210,500 and the number of jobs resulting was put at 8,127.

One would have to go back to 1961 to find a smaller number of jobs produced by the industrial development program undertaken in 1955 with the founding of the AID Commission.

J. Daniel Roebuck, director of the department, offered at least a partial explanation when he appeared in December before a Legislative Council committee exploring energy problems developing in Arkansas.

"Our experience this past year in the Department of Industrial Development has not been particularly gratifying because of the energy crisis," Roebuck told the committee.

The shortage of natural gas, "the one essential ingredient," Roebuck said, "has prevented Arkansas from receiving an estimated $292 million potential capital investment that would eventually produce 13,500 jobs."

Such a problem is not confined to Arkansas, but extends nationally, as reflected last month by a Federal Power Commission order for interstate pipeline companies to curtail sales to industrial customers under interruptible contracts.

The purpose of the FPC order was to permit storage fields to be filled to satisfy needs of residential customers.

Production of jobs in Arkansas through industrialization peaked in the 1968-69 fiscal year, with 17,646. There was greater capital investment in other years, and more plants developed or expanded in other years, but 1968-69 was the big year in terms of jobs.

Next year's end, the Arkansas Business and Economic Review, reporting on third-quarter developments, published some information on the heartening side.

Unemployment dropped to 4.9 per cent in Arkansas in that quarter, the Review said, while the national unemployment rate rose from 5.6 to 5.8 per cent.

"All in all, the state's economy appears to have strengthened substantially during the third quarter of the year," said the Review.

It reported personal income up for the seventh straight quarter, increasing 1.9 per cent in the third quarter compared to a national increase of 1.3 per cent.

Retail sales increased by 12.6 per cent after a slight decline in the second quarter, the Review said.

News on the farm front was not so good. The two-month Longshoremen's strike created the prospect of severe losses for Arkansas farm crops—there were some early estimates of losses in the vicinity of $75 million.

The Review said cash receipts for farm marketings apparently fell substantially in the third quarter. When adjusted for seasonal variation, the receipts fell 13.3 per cent below the second-quarter level, the Review said.

The seasonally adjusted receipts totaled $272,248,000, the lowest for any third quarter since 1968, the Review said.

Italy Gets President, New Crisis

ROME (AP) — Italy got a new president for Christmas and a political crisis that may mean the end of eight years of Center-Left government.

Giovanni Leone, an affable 63-year-old Neapolitan politician, was elected by Parliament after 15 days of voting, talking, screaming insults and a little fighting.

Leone, a Christian Democrat, won as a man of the center. Although partners in the government, his party and the Socialists split over the presidential election and fought bitterly. Observers think it will be a long time before they can get together again in another government.

Avanti, the Socialists party newspaper, accused the Christian Democrats today of a move to the right "that included the Fascists in a repellent and mongrel embrace." The Socialists charge that the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement, the MSI, which gave Leone the kiss of death in the last election seven years ago, this time gave him the election.

In 1964, the MSI said it would vote for Leone, and he immediately withdrew from the race. This time, the neo-Fascists said they would cast blank ballots. But the voting was secret, Leone won with a majority of only 13 votes, and the leftists charge that he got 36 from the MSI. The Christian Democrats deny this.

Premier Emilio Colombo's government, Italy's 32nd in the last 25 years, will resign, possibly this week, as it is required to do upon the election of a new president. If the Socialists remain out of the new government, the Christian Democrats will have to put together a coalition with whatever small parties they can pull into the government.

ALONE TOGETHER, two young lovers in Rome share afternoon wintry sun with their reflections at Bernini's Fountain of the Four Rivers in the Piazza Navona.

Thinks Year Was a Memorable One

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — When you get through returning the gifts, paying the bills and resolving never to let it happen again, you might sit back and dwell a moment upon what has truly been a memorable year.

The railroads ran on time. Not all of them and not all the time. But trains pulled into terminals and stations all over the country at the precise minute listed in the timetable.

And from them emerged happy customers chattering about the smoothness of the ride, the cleanliness of the coaches and the politeness of the personnel. Next you may hear that Amtrak can operate trains at a profit.

Don't discount this remote possibility. If the insurance companies can make underwriting profits the trains can make operating profits. The insurers did make those profits—$600 million in one year after 15 years of losses.

What is indeed mysterious about insurers losing money—although they make it up in investments—is that they employ statistical wizards who claim to be able to compute probabilities with enough accuracy to eliminate surprises. Then they lose.

The insurers attributed the improvement in their 1971 results to an absence of catastrophes, such as major hurricanes; more efficient operations; and, of all things, a "turnaround in the national economy."

That's what the Insurance Information Institute said—a turnaround—even though the recession ended at the end of 1970 and the economy grew throughout 1971.

The rationale is interesting anyway. When the economy turns down, they explained, the public slows down also. People move about less, stay home more. In this way they protect their homes from burglary, fire and fate. And since they're not driving, they don't crash.

The most momentous shock of all was the imposition of economic controls and the evaluation, both coming as did after Washington had publicly expressed its abhorrence of both almost every week for more than a year.

Accompanying the devaluation was a sudden agreement by the world's trading nation to realign their currencies, an agreement reached it seems in hours after having been dodged for years.

The Navaho is the largest Indian tribe in the United States with an estimated 90,000 members, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

From Telephone Pole Into Totem Pole

By JOHN LUNDQUIST
Associated Press Writer
EDINA, Minn. (AP) — After carving out a long career as an artisan-stonemason, Walter Lundberg turned to something easier.

He practiced his finesse on a telephone pole, whacking and whittling with hand ax, hunting knife and rasp until he had a totem pole.

Not bad, you'd conclude, when you see his handiwork propped among the oaks on a lawn in Edina, a Minneapolis suburb, and when you consider Lundberg is 84 years old, has a wooden left leg and gets about with a cane. His leg was amputated because of a circulatory problem seven years ago.

A widower for many years he lives with his daughter and son-

-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Peterson.

Muriel Peterson and her father, Lundberg, agreed last spring it would be a good idea for him to have a summertime hobby. He'd been fascinated by totem poles in the Pacific Northwest.

So his daughter arranged through a friend to have a 30-foot wooden utility pole hauled to their yard.

Lundberg carved some two dozen characters, dispensing wit and wisdom. There's a goose, which he says flies north and south each season and represents dependability, and an owl for wisdom.

Lundberg grew up in a family of 10 children and took up his stonemasonry trade at 23.

Chevalier Still Critical

PARIS (AP) — Hospital authorities said today that Maurice Chevalier was in serious condition, but his private secretary gave a more encouraging report after visiting the 83-year-old showman.

Chevalier has been undergoing treatment in Necker Hospital for two weeks because of a kidney ailment.

Felix Paquet, Chevalier's secretary, told newsmen after visiting the old man this morning: "He was seated in his armchair. He is all right. He is better ... He is lucid. His treatment is continuing."

One-Fourth of Mankind

(7. Barbarians and Buddhas)

Half of China Becomes
The Sporting Ground of Barbarians

A New Answer in a Time of Trouble

The Grand Canal, Watery Bond Between the Two Chinas

While China was passing through these centuries of division . . . the Roman Empire was collapsing . . . Barbarians were establishing kingdoms on what had been the soil of Rome as was being done in the former domains of the Han . . . A new religion, Christianity, was being adopted, much as Buddhism was entering China.

—Kenneth Scott Latourette

Following the end of the 100-year reign of the Han, rival kingdoms contested in vain for the Mandate of Heaven. Barbarians—Mongols, Tibetans, Tartars—breached the Great Wall and poured in. They eventually devastated and took possession of all of north China, setting up a series of revolving dynasties.

Millions of Chinese fled to the frontier land below the Yangtze River, which like a horizontal Mississippi divides China in two, thus carrying the political and cultural center of China to the south.

In 333, an army of a million barbarians moved south in a bid to conquer the remainder of the Celestial Empire. They were routed at the Battle of the River Fei, as decisive in Asian history as the Battle of Marathon was in European history.

Another invasion was taking place in China during these centuries. Buddhism, introduced in the first century A.D., now began spreading rapidly. Temples and monasteries multiplied and scholars made the arduous pilgrimage to India to bring back sacred writings. Among the major schools that arose was Chan Buddhism, later exported to Japan as Zen.

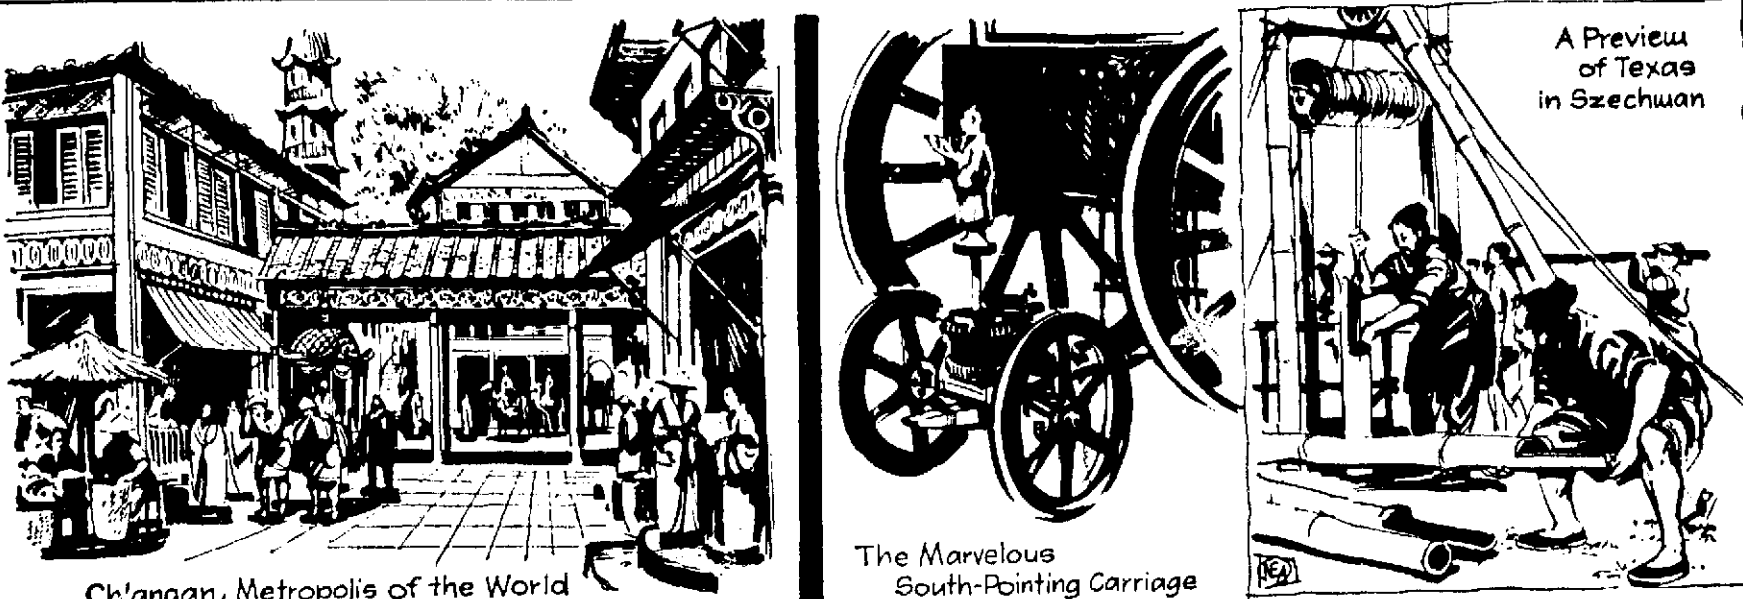

Other new things appeared at this time as well, among them coal, tea, the waterwheel, wheelbarrow and sedan chair.

Gradually, the biological and cultural vitality of the Chinese resulted in the absorption of the barbarians. Unlike Rome, which disappeared into history, China finally achieved reunification under the Sui dynasty in 589.

There were but two emperors in this line, but like the Ch'in dynasty, which had originally united China in the third century before Christ, they labored briefly but well. The Great Wall was repaired, the system of ever-normal granaries was permanently established and a massive public work, the 1,000-mile-long Grand Canal, was undertaken to link the Yellow River and Yangtze River valleys.

Just as the shortlived Ch'in dynasty had paved the way for the great Han dynasty, so the Sui dynasty, which was overthrown in 618, was followed by another dynasty in which Chinese culture reached new heights.

Today many Chinese still call themselves Men of Tang. The Chinatowns in many American cities are called Tang-jen Chieh which, literally translated, means Streets for Men of Tang.

—Dun J. Li

If the ancient time of the sage-kings was China's golden age in legend, the Tang dynasty (618-906) was such in fact.

The barbarians were subdued and Chinese sovereignty was acknowledged from Korea to the gates of India. In power and extent, in population and culture, no contemporary civilization could compare with the Tang.

By 755 the population was more than 53 million. To the capital of Ch'angan came merchants and envoys from all over the known world. In culture, the greatest flowering of the Tang was in poetry and painting.

In religion, Buddhism reached its apex, though the pessimistic teachings of the Gautama had been greatly modified by the basically optimistic Chinese. In reply to the challenge of Buddhism, the native Taoism, which had degenerated into a cult of alchemists and magicians, enjoyed a "counterreformation."

But as Buddhism declined, Confucianism gained, particularly as the basis for the civil service examinations. Under later Tang emperors, Buddhists were persecuted.

Other religions—Mohammedanism, Zoroastrianism, Nestorian Christianity—also entered, but none had Buddhism's success.

It was during the Tang that the first book, a Buddhist text, was printed with wood blocks. This invention, together with such things as gunpowder and the compass, is familiar to the West, but the extent of Chinese inventive genius is not generally appreciated.

Among their innovations was a "south-pointing carriage," a form of compass that worked by a system of gears; and deep-drilling techniques for extracting natural gas and brine—both dating back to Han times. Another was the simple foot stirrup.

According to Prol. Joseph Needham, the authority on Chinese science, if gunpowder shattered European feudalism with its castles and knights in armor, it was the foot stirrup that had made it possible in the first place.

The relentless cycle of dynasty, proceeding from the vigor of youth to the corruption of old age, eventually overtook the Tang. Following the last weak emperor came a half-century of contest between rival families—a period noted for the beginning of the custom of binding women's feet. Finally, in 960, a new dynasty—the Sung—gained the "Mandate of Heaven."

American Dies
in Hotel Fire

Hope to Perfect
Heart Starter

SEOUL (AP) — A U.S. Embassy spokesman today identified an American among 157 killed in a Christmas Day hotel fire as George W. Goodwin, a civilian employee at the nearby Osan Air Force Base.

Goodwin, 49, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ruth Goodwin of Blackwell, Okla., the spokesman said. He was one of nine Americans registered at the Taeyonkak Hotel when fire raced through it Saturday.

At least 157 persons died in the blaze. Some bodies pulled from the ruins were burned beyond recognition, and positive identification of all the victims has been impossible. Goodwin is the only American victim identified so far.

Hotel officials said 203 guests were registered at the 22-story luxury hotel on Christmas Eve and 235 employees were scheduled to be on duty when the fire began at 10 a.m.

It was the worst hotel fire in history, surpassing the 119 killed in the Winecoff Hotel fire in 1946 at Atlanta, Ga.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A team of doctors and engineers hopes to perfect an electrical heart starter that would help to save people with cardiac problems.

The aim is to enable a patient to carry the unit in his chest for automatic and instant recharging of a wavering heartbeat.

Dr. Michel Mirowski of Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore, who heads the project, was interviewed in Minneapolis where he conferred with engineers at Medtronic Inc.

He said a series of successful tests was made on animals with some of the device's systems. Tests also are being made externally on some patients at Sinai Hospital in Baltimore, he said, adding that it is too early to report on any results.

Mirowski said the device, about the size of a cigarette pack, would be placed in the patient's chest and hooked to his heart.

If his heart stopped an electrical charge of about 10-watt-seconds power would jolt it. This is the type of charge that can often get a heart going again, he said.

Batteries would be replaced about every two years, through surgery.

Some 400,000 Americans die of heart attacks annually without living long enough to reach medical help.

Rain Predicted
for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers are expected to begin in the northern portion of the state tonight and early Tuesday and then spread across the state Tuesday.

The precipitation will result from a frontal zone located this morning across central Missouri and west to the Texas Panhandle. The front is drifting slowly southward and is expected to enter the extreme northwest portion of Arkansas late tonight or early Tuesday.

Moisture over the state today is confined to the lower levels and precipitation probabilities are in the 30 per cent range. The rainfall is expected to be light.

Movement of the front is also expected to produce cooler temperatures.

Highs today should be in the upper 60s to low 70s with highs Tuesday in the upper 40s north to low 60s south. Highs Sunday ranged from 63 at Jonesboro to 71 at Texarkana.

Lows tonight should be in the lower 40s north to upper 50s south.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 60, Harrison 56, Jonesboro 60, Pine Bluff 60, Texarkana 65, El Dorado 60, Memphis 58, Little Rock 62 and Fort Smith 50.

Mercury in Fish
for Centuries

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — For at least tens of centuries fish have been concentrating mercury in their tissues, a scientist reported today.

"These findings reinforce warnings that continual discharge by man of even small amounts of antineoplastic mercury can have locally serious effects upon animals and human life," said Edwin Wilmsen, curator of the University of Michigan's Museum of Anthropology.

Wilmsen added that in order to evaluate adequately the significance of mercury and other elements in the environment today, scientists must know something about these levels in the past.

"Archaeological materials are the ideal sources of data for gaining such knowledge," Wilmsen said in a paper prepared for the 138th annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Wilmsen said the museum analyzed 17 samples of fish remains from three archaeological sites—the Saginaw Valley, near Saginaw, Mich., which is dated between 100 B.C. and 400 A.D.; a site near the confluence of the Illinois River with Apple Creek, of the same era; and the pre-Inca Chilca site on the southern coast of Peru, which dates to about 1200 A.D.

Twelve of the 17 samples contained mercury, Wilmsen said. Even adjusting for wide error, he added, would not alter the fact that "these specimens contain relatively large amounts of mercury."

From these findings, Wilmsen inferred that mercury concentrations in fish from pollution-free waters have been as high at various times in the past as they are now, emphasizing the importance of any additional mercury added by man.

Predicts No
January Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service officials predict that no one will be drafted next month.

The officials say the Pentagon has not issued a new draft call for the first quarter of 1972, and since inductees must have 30 days' notice before they are drafted, it is almost certain there won't be any young men ordered up in January.

Defense Department sources say when the new quarterly call is issued it probably will be in the relatively low 10,000 range, similar to the October-December period now ending.

With the million-man Army due to be pared by more than 100,000 men during the next six months, there are indications the 1972 draft call will fall below the 1971 total of 98,000. It could be the lowest since before the Korean War.

Vietnam draft calls peaked at 364,000 in 1968

Wants Study of Consultant Fees

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Sen. Virgil T. Fletcher of Benton plans to ask the Arkansas Legislative Joint Auditing Committee to review the amount of money the state has spent in the last six years for studies and consultant fees.

Fletcher said Sunday he thought the findings would surprise the taxpayers "when they see the amount of money that has been wasted."

The senator, who is chairman of the Auditing Committee, said his action was prompted by disclosures in a copyrighted article in the Arkansas Democrat that a former or current state official now hold or have held stock in a firm that has received more than $600,000 in fees from the state in the past four years.

Gov. Dale Bumpers has said he wants an investigation into the dealings of the firm, Interlock Inc., with the state.

Interlock's contracts with the state primarily have been for consultant work for the Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement. The four former or present state officials who have held stock in the firm, according to the Democrat, are State Police Director William C. Miller, former director Ralph D. Scott, former Crime Commission Director John H. Hickey and Marshall Rush of Pine Bluff, a member of the state Board of Correction.

Vacationers: Beware!

To give his family a summertime treat, Ernest piled them into a trailer and drove to a nearby lake. Renting space in a trailer park, he settled down for two carefree weeks.

But on the day of departure, Ernest came down with a galloping case of poison ivy. In fact, it was so severe that he determined to claim damages from the management of the trailer park.

"The poison ivy was growing right there on the premises," Ernest charged in court. "It was up to them, as owners of the land, to get rid of it."

However, the court decided that Ernest had no legal kick coming.

"The city dweller who chooses to spend his vacation in the great outdoors," said the court, "must assume the risks of the outdoors such as mosquitoes, snakes, poison ivy, and other natural conditions not found in the urban communities."

Still, even in the "great outdoors," the vacationer does not assume risks he could not reasonably foresee. In another case, a camper in Yellowstone National Park was bitten by a rabid, vicious grizzly bear. Park rangers had reason to suspect that a dangerous bear was at large, but they had given the camper no special warning about the situation.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Disease Is Vitamin Deficiency

Diagnosing Pernicious Anemia

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—How is pernicious anemia diagnosed? Is it always hereditary? Is the only method of diagnosis having the stomach pumped? I know it can be treated if found in time. Please write on this vital subject.

Dear Reader—Pernicious anemia is vitamin B-12 deficiency. The anemia is really only one part of the picture of B-12 deficiency.

The stomach produces a substance (intrinsic factor) that enables the B-12 to be absorbed from the digestive tract. B-12 deficiency usually occurs because the stomach quits producing sufficient amounts of this substance. This condition is accompanied by lack of stomach acid. If a person's stomach contains acid and the intrinsic factor, he does not have pernicious anemia. Hence the contents of the stomach is analyzed to help make a correct diagnosis. The anemia is established by the blood examination.

One out of five patients with pernicious anemia has a family history of the problem.

In addition to causing anemia, B-12 deficiency also damages the nervous system. This can cause numbness, weakness, or difficulty in walking. Some vital cells in the spinal cord may degenerate. The brain may be affected, resulting in dullness, apathy or complete psychosis.

If treatment is delayed too long not all of the nerve damage can be reversed. Early treatment can even reverse mental changes in some cases.

In more advanced cases the tongue may be sore. There are mild symptoms of indigestion, constipation or diarrhea. Because of the anemia the skin becomes pale or may be slightly tinged with a lemon yellow tint.

The diagnosis is confirmed by injecting B-12 and observing the improvement in the blood picture. The B-12 must be injected. It can't be taken by mouth or it won't be absorbed.

Dietary deficiencies can be a factor in causing B-12 deficiency, but the absence of the intrinsic factor of the stomach essential to B-12 absorption is the most important problem. Why the stomach quits producing the intrinsic factor is not known. Some studies suggest that this is another example of a person becoming allergic to his own body processes, or autoimmune diseases.

Antibody formation is the mechanism we have to develop immunity. We develop antibodies to measles and are then immune to measles.

When antibodies are manufactured to some natural substance in the body, it is an autoimmune disease. A reaction occurs between the antibody and a natural body substance. In this instance, between the antibody and the cells that form the intrinsic substance within the stomach. This is the mechanism for rejection of transplanted organs, such as the heart or kidney.

There are a host of diseases that scientists think are related to the body going berserk and manufacturing antibodies against itself—hence one becomes allergic to himself. Possibly pernicious anemia is one of these diseases.

Jim: "It wasn't too bad for you. You served as non-playing captain for the third straight year and I am very sorry you elected to resign after we won in Taiwan."

Oswald: "Like politicians, non-playing captains are likely to consider themselves indispensable. I had held the job long enough and am able to quit a winner. Not that I don't think that your team and Lee Hazen, the new non-playing captain won't win again, but contrary to popular belief the captain worries along with the team and I am glad a younger man has the job."

NOTICE OFFERING PUBLIC HEARING ON HIGHWAY LOCATION AND DESIGN JOB 3750 FEDERAL AID PROJECT S-585 (2) CROSS ROADS-WASHINGTON HEMPSTEAD COUNTY

All interested persons are advised that the construction of Highway 195 from Cross Roads to Washington in Hempstead County is being planned by the Arkansas State Highway Commission. The project begins at the junction of State Highways 73 and 195 at Cross Roads and extends north generally following the existing route to a point near the west city limits of Washington, a distance of approximately 3.46 miles. The proposed project generally consists of grading, minor drainage structures, stabilized base, bituminous surfacing, sealed shoulders, one bridge length box culvert and one bridge. Plans showing location and design of the proposed route and information relative to environmental studies are available for public inspection at the office of the District Engineer, Arkansas State Highway Department, 1515 West 3rd Street, Hope, Arkansas.

Any interested citizen in the vicinity of said route may request that a public hearing be held regarding such proposed location and design and the economic effect of such construction by submitting a written request to the District Engineer, Arkansas State Highway Department, P.O. Box 490, Hope, Arkansas 71801, on or before the 27th day of December, 1971.

In the event such request is received, a further notice of the date, time and place of the hearing will be published. Dec. 6, 13, 20, 27, 1971

Scott Welcomes Investigation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former State Police Director Ralph D. Scott says he welcomes a complete investigation of his ownership of stock in the Interlock Inc. consulting firm that reportedly has received more than $600,000 in fees from the state in the last two years.

Scott said Sunday that he would cooperate fully in the investigation. He said he would write a letter today to Prosecutor David Hedges, chairman of the state Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement, detailing his knowledge of the firm and his stock ownership in it.

The former director said he would insist that the results of the investigation be made public.

Interlock's work for the state has been in the law enforcement and corrections fields.

Meanwhile, Prosecutor Jim Guy Tucker of Little Rock said Sunday that the revelation that Scott and three other former or current state officials held stock in Interlock "raises a question that requires public scrutiny."

Tucker said he planned "to gather all the information on it that I can" and confer with Gov. Dale Bumpers and Hedges on what type of investigation they planned.

Bumpers has told Hedges that he wants an investigation of the transactions, but the governor has not said who will make the inquiry. Tucker said he assumed his office would have jurisdiction, since state offices are in Little Rock.

He said he did not know if any Arkansas laws were applicable to the circumstances, but he said legislation to prohibit "that sort of thing so there won't even be the appearance of such conflicts in the future."

The Arkansas Democrat reported Friday in a copyrighted article that four persons who were either current or former state officials have held or now hold stock in Interlock. Named were Scott, present State Police Director William C. Miller, former Crime Commission Director John H. Hickey and Marshall Rush of Pine Bluff, a member of the state Board of Correction.

Both Miller and Scott said Sunday there was no conflict of interest in their ownership of stock.

Miller said there was no conflict because he was in no position to influence state contracts. He said he sold his 100 shares, worth $1,000, upon becoming State Police director last June to avoid even the appearance of conflict.

"What is conflict of interest?" asked Scott. "This is a question somebody ought to answer before they keep asking if it's a conflict of interest."

"This is a term that is very damned loosely used and it can be very well damage not only the criminal justice system in this state, which is one of the best in the nation, but also damage the reputation of public spirited citizens who have served their state unselfishly."

Public Safety Director Harold W. Brueggeman, who is Miller's superior, said that based upon what he knows there was no conflict in Miller's holding Interlock stock, since he "had absolutely no opportunity to influence any state agency with respect to Interlock."

Miller was assistant director when he held the stock and said he told Brueggeman of his shares when he was appointed head of the Police Services Division, or State Police, of the

China Concludes U.S., Russia Losing Influence

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China assessed its first session at the United Nations today and concluded that the United States and Russia are losing influence there while the medium size and smaller nations are gaining strength.

An editorial in the official Peking People's Daily warned, however, that "the two superpowers are unreconciled to their defeat and will continue to push the policy of hegemony in every way."

The editorial said once again that China will never become a superpower but will instead champion the causes of the world's "third countries."

It said the General Assembly session which ended last Wednesday was of particular significance because it admitted mainland China and expelled the Nationalist over U.S. objections and because it called for a cease-fire and troop withdrawal in the India-Pakistan war after Russia vetoed similar resolutions in the Security Council.

"This reflected sharply that the just voice against big-power hegemony gained an upper hand at the General Assembly, raising the spirit of the medium and small countries and severely puncturing the arrogance of the superpowers," said the editorial.

"This session of the U.N. General Assembly is an important sign that it is more and more difficult for the two superpowers to continue to control and monopolize U.N. affairs as in the past."

The United States and Russia "colluded and at the same time contended with each other in furtherance of their interests," Peking said. "While intensifying their contention, they will make deals behind the scenes whenever possible. They

Continue Search for Airliner

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Military and civilian search planes checked out reports today that a Peruvian airliner missing since Friday with 92 persons aboard may have crashed in a lake-dotted rain forest.

The plane, whose passengers included five Americans, left Lima bound for the Amazon River city of Iquitos, in north-east Peru. It was last heard from as it prepared to land at Pucallpa, a jungle town on the eastern slopes of the Andes.

The search was extended Sunday to include a 60-mile area along the Electra project's route over the mountains.

"There have been several reports of people having heard a plane going down in the Tamaya area," a search coordinator said.

The area along the Tamaya River is covered by dense forest and is inhabited only by Shipibo and Campa Indians.

Devaluation? Why Worry?

By CARLTON SMITH

"I have brought my intellect fiercely to bear on all the news stories and editorials about the devaluation of the dollar," Snavelly told the Financial Wizard. "And I am frankly floundering. I don't know whether it's something I should be worried about or not. That worries me."

"As I understand it," said the Wizard, "you are worried because you don't know whether or not you should be worried. This is a condition of life in our society, and merely demonstrates that you are normal. Therefore, you have nothing to worry about. On the other hand, if you weren't worried about something you would not be normal, and that would be cause for worry. Now, about the dollar."

"My dollars more precisely," said Snavelly. "Should I clean out my savings account and buy gold-name stocks? Diamonds? French impressionist paintings? Or should I..."

"One moment," said the Wizard. "It is the word 'devaluation' that bothers you. Let us test your reaction to this." He drew a large dollar sign on a sheet of paper and held it up. "Do you feel worried about what you see on the paper?"

Snavelly pondered a moment. "No."

"Quite normal," said the Wizard. "Because that was not a dollar you were looking at, but a dollar sign. A symbol. Not the thing itself. Agreed?"

Snavelly nodded.

"Very well. Now, the devaluation that you are worried about—or rather, uncertain whether you should worry about—is also only symbolical. The dollar was in fact devalued last August. Certain high ranking officials denied, at the time, that devaluation had occurred, and this has created a certain amount of confusion. It is rather as if Uncle Harry had expired some time ago, and you buried him, but the doctor said that although Uncle Harry should indeed be removed to the cemetery, he wasn't really dead. Now, four months later, he tells you that Uncle Harry is breathing his last and you should start making plans for the funeral."

"You're suggesting the dollar is dead?" Snavelly asked in alarm.

"This depends on which dollar we are talking about," said the Wizard. "There was formerly a dollar which foreign debtors could hope to have redeemed by the United States for 1/35 of an ounce of gold. That dollar has been dead since last August, when Washington announced that gold parity had suddenly departed. Some time during the night, without leaving a forwarding address."

"The dollar your wife exchanges at the grocery for potatoes or whatever—and the dollar you have in your savings account—is alive and more or less well. It is still worth, and will continue to be worth, whatever a dollar is worth in the American economy.

"As for our late friend, the gold-at-$35-an-ounce dollar, who has been dead for some while, it is high time the poor fellow was buried. This dollar has been floating around in the limbo of international monetary waters, where it has been devalued some 8 1/2 per cent through natural attrition."

"Now Washington has agreed to a formal devaluation, or funeral. The appropriate sentiment should not be pain or grief, but simple relief that we can at last erect a headstone reading: 'Here lies the 91 cent dollar—or whatever the figure turns out to be.'"

Snavelly grasped the Wizard's hand and shook it warmly. "Really appreciate this," he said. "Not a bit worried now."

"Abnormal fellow," the Wizard muttered as he departed. "Oh, well—wait till he reads tomorrow's paper."

Seeks Harmony Non Communist Nations Among Demo Getting More Soviet Aid

By LEWIS GULICK Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department study reports that the Soviet Union stepped up its arms-aid commitments to non-Communist countries sharply last year while Red China became the largest Communist pledger of economic aid.

The survey by the State Department's intelligence and research bureau on Communist aid and trade with developing countries in 1970 dealt with pledges which can vary widely from year to year.

Actual aid deliveries tend to run lower than the amounts pledged and to fluctuate from one year to the next.

The study estimated that less than half of $11 billion in Communist economic assistance pledged to less-developed countries from 1954 through 1970 has been delivered. It said Communist arms-aid deliveries to these countries lag less than the economic.

According to the report: —Russia's new pledges of arms assistance to non-Communist developing countries last year came to $800 million, the largest total since 1964, with most of this going to Egypt. Peking pledged little or no military deliveries to these countries.

—Of the total Communist pledges of $1.1 billion in new economic aid in 1970, Red China committed the lion's share with $709 million—nearly as much as China's entire previous economic aid since 1956.

—Moscow's new economic-assistance pledges to non-Communist lands in 1970 dropped to $204 million, one-third of its previous year's $662 million and its smallest annual rate since 1962.

—Under the Soviet arms-aid program, at least 20,000 trainees have gone to the Soviet Union from less-developed countries since 1955.

—Last year the Soviets had 16,100 military advisers in a half dozen of these lands, mainly 14,000 in Egypt.

—About 24,000 Communist economic technicians worked in non-Communist developing countries in 1970, including 10,600 from Russia and 8,110 from Red China.

The State Department report ascribed Red China's new venture into large-scale foreign economic aid to a "bid for a greater role as an international power" following China's cultural revolution isolationist years.

The prime item in the Chinese aid program was $400 million pledged to Tanzania and Zambia to help build the Tan-Zam railroad. Peking also pledged $100 million to Pakistan.

The report's aid figures do not include the large amounts devoted by Communist states such as North Vietnam and Cuba.

The candidates have agreed to that, to limit their primary campaign spending to five cents for each registered voter for television and radio broadcasts, with a similar limit on other forms of campaign advertising.

In addition, O'Brien said, they have agreed to abide by the reforms instituted by the party to insure an open process of delegate selection for 1972.

"The candidates competing for the presidential nomination bear a special burden to see that delegate selection criteria are observed to the letter," O'Brien said.

At the same time, O'Brien said, the contenders have agreed that they will not post frivolous credentials challenges at the convention as a tactic to win nomination.

Such challenges would amount to an effort to unseat delegates pledged to support a rival candidate.

GIs Protest Drug Policy

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Eighteen Army enlisted men, hours back from Vietnam where officials said they used narcotics, seized a floor of an observation ward here to protest military drug treatment policies.

The men, who officials said were aided by three former soldiers who were members of Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW), used mattresses to barricade themselves on the second floor of the Second Aeromedical Staging Flight Facility Sunday night.

Air Force Col. George E. Reynolds, the hospital commander, said there had been no violence, damage or injuries, and that he would confer with other military officials before deciding what action to take against the protesters. The soldiers had arrived at Travis located 50 miles east of San Francisco, only hours before the takeover, he said.

A spokesman for the group, who said he was Army Spec. 4 Mike Oliver but was later identified as a VVAW official, told a newsman by telephone that the soldiers had taken opium in Vietnam and when they arrived at Travis were told "we aren't fit to walk the streets with other American people and said we were being held for 30 to 60 days."

A spokesman for the VVAW in San Francisco said Oliver was not in the Army but was a national coordinator of the peace group.

Oliver said the soldiers were not addicts and wanted immediate release from the hospital, separation from the military, physicals given by civilian doctors and amnesty for "all military people strung out on drugs."

An Air Force official did not discuss the servicemen's drug problems but noted that the observation ward at the base operates as an overnight ward for returning servicemen awaiting flights to drug rehabilitation centers throughout the nation. No identities were released.

Democrats Pick Kennedy in Poll

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts is the leading choice of registered Democratic voters for the party's presidential nomination, the latest Gallup Poll shows.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine was listed as second, and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, third.

But if Kennedy, stays out of the race, a second Gallup Poll shows Humphrey leading Muskie.

Kennedy, who has repeatedly said he is not a candidate, was the choice of 32 per cent of some 560 Democrats polled in more than 250 communities from Dec. 10 to 13. Muskie drew 25 per cent and Humphrey 19 per cent.

But with Kennedy out of the race, the second poll showed Humphrey leading Muskie by a margin of 34 per cent to 31 per cent.

NEW YORK (AP) — The man who arranges dressing spots in the New York Rangers' dressing room knows his stuff. Some time ago, he stationed Vic Hadfield next to Glen Sather. Call it Kibitzer's Corner.

Hadfield kids Sather and Sather kids Hadfield. Sunday night, the two of them ganged up on the Montreal Canadiens. It was an unfair match.

Hadfield fired two goals, ending an eight-game dry spell, and Sather connected once, ending a season-long dry spell as the Rangers blitzed the Canadiens 5-1. The victory, extending New York's home ice unbeaten streak to 17 games, left the front-running Rangers a fat seven points ahead of third-place Montreal in the National Hockey League's East Division. It was a time for smiles and Hadfield and Sather obliged.

"Hrm, the kid's first goal," said Hadfield, noting Sather's accomplishment. "Give him two or three years and he'll be a good hockey player."

"Is that what he said?" asked Sather when Hadfield's crack was repeated. "Why, that's what I've been telling him about himself."

'Tis the season to be jolly, you know.

The Boston Bruins, meanwhile, remained four points behind New York with a 3-1 triumph over Toronto. Elsewhere, Chicago downed Los Angeles 6-3, Detroit trimmed Minnesota 5-1, Philadelphia whipped Pittsburgh 6-1; Buffalo turned back St. Louis 6-3 and Vancouver beat California 6-2.

Saturday night it was New York 2, Minnesota 1; Boston 5, Philadelphia 1; Pittsburgh 4, Montreal 2; Toronto 5, Detroit 3; California 3, Los Angeles 1 and St. Louis 4, Buffalo 4.

Hadfield had gotten the Rangers off in front in the opening period when he converted a letter-perfect pass from Rod Gilbert. It was his 23rd goal of the season and 400th career NHL point. Center Jean Ratelle also assisted—his 499th career point.

Then Ted Irvine made it 2-0 with about 3½ minutes left in the period. Still, a two-goal lead is hardly a safe cushion against a team like Montreal. Enter Sather.

Goalie Gilles Villeneuve gloved a second-period shot and hit Bill Fairbairn with a pass that got a Ranger rush started. Fairbairn found Sather and Slates—a nickname he earned from long, tedious stays on the bench—connected.

"That was the back-breaker," noted Francis. "A big goal."

Less than one minute later, it was Hadfield again and the 4-0 Ranger bulge grew into the 5-1 final count when New York's Pierre Jarry and Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer traded third-period goals.

Ken Hodge scored in the opening minute after Bobby Orr's rink-length dash and in the final minute into an empty net to lead Boston past Toronto. Phil Esposito, the NHL's leading scorer, also tallied for the Bruins while Toronto's Bobby Baun notched his first goal of the season in the second period.

to spoil goalie Ed Johnston's shutout bid.

Chico Maki snapped a 3-3 tie with 8:10 remaining and Bobby Hull and Jim Pappin chipped in with insurance tallies as Chicago beat Los Angeles, Lou Angotti scored twice for the Black Hawks in the first period, Bob Pulford and Mike Corrigan tied it for the Kings in the second stanza and Dennis Hull and Bill Flett traded third-period goals before the Black Hawks skated away.

Mickey Redmond scored twice to highlight a 19-shot Detroit second-period barrage against Minnesota goalie Cesare Maniago.

Philadelphia wrapped up its triumph over Pittsburgh on the first-period goals by Bobby Clarke, Bob Kelly and Barry Ashbee. Serge Bernier netted a second period goal and added four assists to set a one-game Flyers scoring record.

Buffalo made the most of a meager three shots in the opening period—Mike Byers and Don Luce scored—and went on to beat St. Louis, giving Al Arbour an 0-1-1 record as the Blues' new coach, Gerry Meehan's second-period goal put the Sabres ahead for good before Byers added his second goal and rookie Rick Martin tallied twice, his 23rd and 24th markers.

California grabbed a 2-1 lead over Vancouver on Gerry Pinder's two goals but the Canucks rallied in the second period on goals by Wayne Connelly and Andre Boudrias and Wayne Maki and Ted Taylor iced it six minutes apart in the third stanza.

DALLAS (AP) — Nearly fifteen per cent of the telephone subscribers in the Dallas-Fort Worth district — 124,000 out of 825,000 — have unlisted numbers and Southwestern Bell Telephone hints it may have to impose a service charge if that trend continues.
